Event Rules

Patterns: ITF pattern rules apply. Single elimination to the final round. Divisions will be by age, gender and belt level. Division of 2 or less will be folded into another division. Colour belts will perform a pattern of their level or one level below. Black belts will perform one pattern of their level or one level below. Black belts will perform an additional pattern, randomly selected, for the gold / silver round.

Sparring: ITF sparring rules apply. Single elimination to the final round. Divisions will be by age, gender and belt level. Division of 2 or less will be folded into another division. Sparring gear is mandatory (hands, feet and head) as are mouth guards and groin cups (for males). Colour belts will spar 1 round of 120 seconds (2 minutes). Black belt sparring rounds will be 2 round of 120 seconds (2 minutes).

Procedure:

Taekwon-Do tournaments are a very different type of competition when compared to other sports like hockey or soccer. Since there are over 125 different divisions there is never a time sensitive way to schedule when a person's group may go up to compete. There are also multiple "rings" that are working so a "ring" may come open at any time, ready for the next group.

Destiny Martial Arts runs the divisions from the youngest age, lowest belt, upwards through the ages and belts until the oldest age.

Knowing this order of events allows you to at least see if you are close to being called to the "on deck" area. Listen to the age group and belt and you will know how close you are to being called. Competitors are first called to the on deck area and then taken to the first available ring.

The only exception to this rule would be if your division has been folded into another due to low number of entries. You would be placed into another division, possibly a different belt level or possibly a different age level. This list of "folded" competitors would be at the on deck area and announced throughout the day.

Pattern and Sparring Divisions

6-7-8 white, yellow, green, blue, red (also divided by gender)
9-10-11 white, yellow, green, blue, red, black (also divided by gender)
12-13-14 white, yellow, green, blue, red, black (also divided by gender)
15-16-17 white, yellow, green, blue, red, black (also divided by gender)
18 to 35 white, yellow, green, blue, red, black (also divided by gender)
36 to 44 white, yellow, green, blue, red, black (also divided by gender)
45 and up white, yellow, green, blue, red, black (also divided by gender)

Sparring weight Categories: Important!

When registering as a competitor for sparring, it is important that the weight of the competitor be very accurate. As we do not have an official weigh-in procedure for this event, we can only assume that the competitor will state their actual weight. In the event that there is a significant and noticeably large difference in the sizes of competitors in any category and there are enough competitors to do so, the ring official will create separate weight divisions (light weight, heavy weight, etc).
